LESSON PLANS

Tagline: A City for All

Design team: Abobakar Sediq Miakhel, Oshan Gunathilake, Robin Sharma, Siddhi Gupta and Sushmita Krishnan

DIVERCITY LESSON PLAN 1

SETTING

Playing DIVERCITY in a Museum

TARGET AUDIENCE

Learners/visitors on a museum visit

OUTLINE

DIVERCITY is a game-based learning application designed to bring people together and provide a space for them to get to know each other through an interactive, digital environment. Before reading this lesson plan, it is advised that the reader learns more about DIVERCITY here. It is also recommended that the facilitators make themselves familiar with DIVERCITY by playing a few sessions in advance. This lesson plan is created as a general guide for using DIVERCITY in any museum and is not specific to a fixed location.

TIME DURATION

60 minutes

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. Find, connect and learn about other individuals in this museum.
 2. Create unique artifacts and cities with co-players. Share your creations on social media and add a unique experience to your museum visit.

DIVERCITY LESSON PLAN 1

INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE PLAYER

Start the game in 'Play by location' mode and connect with one other player in the museum. Your final objective is to find the other person at the end of your game session. Remember, the game only provides limited communication, so you will have to be understanding and creative to meet your co-player.

INSTRUCTIONAL RECOMMENDATIONS

1. Recommend that players play themes that are relevant and connected with the theme of the museum.
2. After the gameplay session, regroup, discuss and debrief about how the in-game interaction with other players was linked with the artifacts in the museum.
3. Ask players to share one unique fact they learned about their co-players.
4. Players share the artifacts they created with each other and how the artifacts represent their personality and understanding of the theme.
5. Ask players to share the unique and significant features of their DIVERCITY.

SETTING

Playing DIVERCITY in a formal/ informal classroom

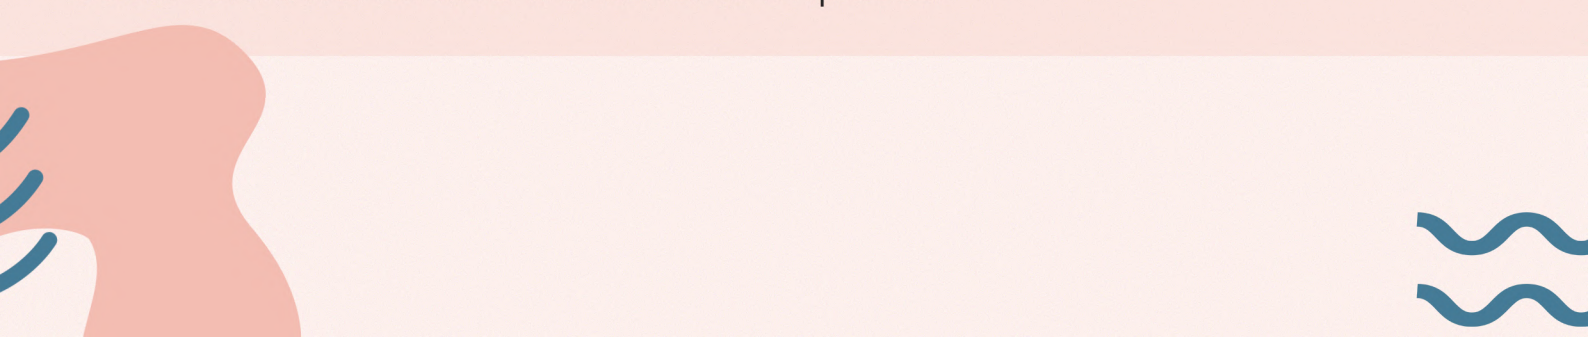

TARGET AUDIENCE

Students or trainees

*For best results, ensure your audience is inclusive of individuals representing a diverse range of religions, cultures, ethnicities, genders and other social identities.

It is also recommended that facilitators make themselves familiar with DIVERCITY by playing a few sessions in advance. This lesson plan is created as a general guide for using DIVERCITY in a formal or non-formal classroom/learning environment where students can share their in-game experience in real life and facilitators are able to provide feedback and debrief on the additional cognitive, socio-emotional and behavioral impacts.

DIVERCITY LESSON PLAN 2

MATERIALS REQUIRED

1. Smartphone with internet connection and DIVERCITY application installed for each learner
2. Printed feedback forms for learners (attached)
3. Printed advocacy plan templates for learners (attached)

GAME SETTINGS

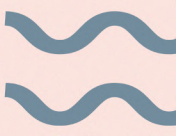

The game should be connected to a local server intranet or VPN in order to ensure learners will be able to interact with each other only

TIME DURATION

120 minutes

(Activity: 60 mins + Debrief: 30 mins + Advocacy Plan: 30 mins)

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. Use the in-game mechanics to reflect and express emotions and feelings more peacefully to foster better communication and dialogue.
 2. Connect with individuals from different backgrounds and beliefs, engage in dialogue and collaborative problem-solving to identify shared values unique to your particular cultural and religious identities, and foster a culture of peace based on respect, tolerance and understanding.

DIVERCITY LESSON PLAN 2

LEARNING OBJECTIVES (CONTD.)

3. Develop a personal action plan to strengthen the intercultural–interreligious integration and social cohesion in the local communities they come from.

ACTIVITY INSTRUCTIONS

1. Start the game in 'local server' mode which is limited to the current participants in the classroom.
2. Watch the prologue to get a grasp of the game environment and its gameplay.
3. You will be asked to create your profile. The game will provide a list of options to select from to build your in-game personality. Take some time to reflect on the interests, feelings, values and beliefs that are most relevant and closest to you on a daily basis. Try to be as honest and transparent as you can when inputting these in order to create a matching avatar for your real personality. [LO-1]
4. Browse through the themes and challenges next. Select a challenge and start it. You will be connected to a random player on the server who may have many similarities or differences to you in opinion.
5. Together, attempt to co-solve the challenge according to the instructions given. While doing so, engage in dialogue and associate with your co-player through in-game mechanisms and prompts. Remember, the game only provides limited communication, so you will have to be understanding and creative. [LO-2]

ACTIVITY INSTRUCTIONS (CONTD.)

6. Try to share the ideas and insights that come from your cultural, religious and social backgrounds while actively reflecting on the same at your co-player's end. [LO-2]
7. Once the challenge is attempted (regardless of the result), you will be given a few feedback collection questions that will help you organize your learnings and the new information you have received by engaging with your co-player. Answer the questions as best as you can with personal reflections. [LO-2]
8. You can now attempt another challenge (or the same again) with a different co-player that will be randomly assigned. Repeat the same steps from 5 to 7.
9. Once the time is up, complete the printed feedback that will help you summarise and categorize the whole experience and learnings you received. Try to reflect on the questions by yourself first, and then engage in a group reflection experience through sharing facilitated by your trainer. Try to identify how you all felt, the perspectives on and reactions to each interaction. See if there are any common grounds or impasses. [LO-2]
10. Based on the new learnings and debrief, develop your personal action plan to promote a culture of peace through respect, tolerance and understanding that you would like to implement in your own community. You can utilize the printed action plan template provided. Your facilitator will mentor you through the process and provide any additional feedback or support. [LO-3]

ACTIVITY INSTRUCTIONS (CONTD.)

11. [Bonus step] Depending on the available time, get everyone to share their action plans with the rest of the classroom. Learners will receive feedback and suggestions from their peers. Facilitators will conduct the sharing and feedback sessions as well as provide additional inputs as necessary. [LO-3]

INSTRUCTIONAL RECOMMENDATIONS

1. Facilitators should help learners to effectively conduct the experience sharing rounds through the debrief. Ask them definite questions and if the discussion turns sideways, ensure to help them find their way back.
2. The personal action plan could be conducted separately from the initial session if the time requirement is not feasible (i.e. ask the players to develop their action plan at home and bring it back to share with the class the next day).
3. Mentorship and seed-funding support can be given to assist with the implementation of action plans.
